

Street Changes at Columbia University Irving Medical Center

INFORMATION FOR PATIENTS

Columbia University Irving Medical Center, in partnership with the New York City Department of Transportation, is building Haven Plaza, a pedestrian plaza for the enjoyment of our patients and the entire community.

WHAT'S HAPPENING?

On Tuesday, May 28, 2019, the NYC DOT will begin resurfacing Haven Avenue between 169th Street and Fort Washington Avenue to create Haven Plaza. The street will be closed to through traffic and on-street parking will be eliminated along the plaza. Vehicles traveling south on Haven Avenue will now terminate at 169th Street and may head east on 169th Street.

HOW WILL THIS AFFECT ME?

Patients traveling to and from appointments in the Allan Rosenfield Building and the Neurological Institute by car, taxi, ambulance, or other vehicle may be dropped off or picked up at the area marked by the yellow square on the map. Parking is available at the NewYork-Presbyterian parking garage at West 165th Street and Fort Washington Avenue.

NEED HELP?

Traffic representatives will be posted at the corner of Haven Avenue and 169th Street to direct patients and drivers to the pickup/dropoff area.

WHERE CAN I FIND OUT MORE?

More information about Haven Plaza is available on the Columbia University Irving Medical Center website at cuimc.columbia.edu/haven-plaza.

Thank you for choosing Columbia University Irving Medical Center and the 1,800 physicians of ColumbiaDoctors.
